

PMs Agree Upon Singapore Declaration

SINGAPORE (CP) — Thirty-one Commonwealth leaders accepted today a new declaration of principles to be known as the Singapore Declaration—setting out their opposition to racial and other forms of discrimination.

Prime Minister Trudeau, who delayed his departure for a state visit to Indonesia today, provided the compromise amendment: "that made the declaration acceptable to all."

The document was distributed by Commonwealth Secretariat officials after heads of government agreed on the terms during hours of sharp, often heated debate on passages that would bind member nations to refuse any assistance that might bolster governments, like South Africa, practicing racial discrimination.

Prime Ministers Edward Heath of Britain and John Gorton of Australia were the main opponents of this commitment. They relented, however, when the Canadian compromise inserted words which left the question of aid to individual interpretation.

PROPOSED BY ZAMBIA
Zambia first proposed the declaration which included a controversial clause calling on all members of the Commonwealth not to aid countries practicing racial discrimination—in other words, South Africa. Britain strongly objected to this because it would be a denial of its own legitimate interests to sell arms to South Africa.

At the windup of the nine-day summit talks that saw the Commonwealth teetering on the brink of breakup, the 31 nations pledged to deny to racist regimes all aid which in their judgment "directly contributes to the pursuit of this evil policy." The Commonwealth leaders said: "We recognize racial prejudice as a dangerous sickness threatening the healthy development of the human race and racial discrimination as an unmitigated evil of society."

"Each of us will vigorously combat this evil within our own nation."

"No country will afford to regimes which practise racial discrimination assistance which in its own judgment directly contributes to the pursuit or consolidation of this evil policy."

WORKS BEHIND SCENES
Prime Minister Trudeau, working hard behind the scenes, came up with the compromise acceptable to Britain and Australia, and it included the key words, "in its own judgment."

Six nations offered additions or amendments to the Zambian original draft. It was a Canadian one which finally proved acceptable to the 31 heads of delegation.

Commonwealth leaders were reported to have reached agreement after an hour of discussion behind closed doors with only their senior advisers present.

Asked whether his amendment prevented a deadlock, Trudeau told reporters, "You are looking for heroes again. I'm not a hero, just another individual."

The new wording of the declaration was worked out during a coffee break today between the most interested leaders, sitting in a group around Trudeau—acting as conciliator.

LISTS PRINCIPLES
Among the leaders were Heath, Kaunda, President Milton Obote of Uganda and Australian Prime Minister John Gorton.

The 696-word declaration listed five principles which Commonwealth members hold in common:

—Belief in peace and order for the prosperity and security of mankind.

—Liberty of the individual and equal rights regardless of race, color, creed or political belief.

—Recognition that racial prejudice is a dangerous sickness and racial discrimination is an unmitigated evil and opposition to colonial domination and racial oppression.

—Belief that wide disparities of wealth now existing between different sections of mankind are too great to be tolerated and aim for their progressive removal.

—Belief in international co-operation as an essential to remove the causes of war and to promote justice and tolerance.

The sense of the Canadian amendment was to convey the idea that nations practising racial discrimination should not be helped by Commonwealth members in a way that is intended or designed to strengthen their discriminatory system.

Thus the British, who say they still intend to sell arms to South Africa, could argue that they are doing so to ensure the safety of the Cape of Good Hope sea lanes, not to consolidate apartheid.

Singapore Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew, in a chairman's windup address to the conference said the problem would not be solved even if Britain gave up its arms plan.

"In any case China or Russia would supply arms to the oppressed Africans. Bloodshed and suffering were inevitable." But Prime Minister Heath emerged from the conference plainly unmoved, although his critics included every chief delegate excepting those of Malawi and Lesotho.

President Hastings Banda and Prime Minister Chief Leabua Jonathan were the only ones explicitly to back up his arms-for-South Africa policy, and Australia gave it lukewarm support.

The only major decision taken by government leaders was to form a study group to look into problems of maritime security in the South Atlantic and Indian Ocean. Foreign ministers of the eight states, including Canada, are likely to kick off the proceedings in London next month by defining their tasks and setting up a series of subcommittees to look into individual aspects of the tangled problem.

'Jobless Rally' Held In Kelowna

About 100 construction workers from the Hiram Walker site at Winfield congregated in the arena parking lot Thursday in what spokesman Ronald Neilson of Vancouver, described as an "unemployed rally."

Designed to support a similar rally by the British Columbia Federation of Labor in Victoria Thursday, the placard bearing workers marched along Water Street past city hall and east along Bernard Avenue to Richard Street, returning west along Bernard Avenue to the Willow Inn.

"British Columbia has the highest unemployment rating in Canada," said Mr. Neilson, adding his main "beef" was with the "Canadian economy" and not the city. He singled out Premier W. A. C. Bennett as passing the buck to the federal government in the unemployment question.

Among workers represented at the rally were many from local 213 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Mr. Neilson said prior to the Hiram Walker project most workers had been idle for "six or seven months" and their current employment at Winfield would only last "two or three months." After that, their future was insecure, he added.

Some of the placard messages proclaimed "we want year-round employment; is the good life welfare and we support the B.C. Federation in Victoria."

"We have to show our feelings to the government," said Mr. Neilson, adding employment in the province had been "shrivelled up intentionally." He cited lay-offs of nurses in psychiatric wards, civil servants and cut-backs in school construction as some of the major complaints by workers.

"We want to know why," said Mr. Neilson who came to Kelowna from Vancouver to find work. "I had to take anything."

HE'S A WORM WITH A TURN

BRIGHTON, England (AP) — Wipple Willie Mark II, a slender racer groomed on a diet of chocolate and cabbage, is favored to win the Brighton Toy Fair's annual worm grand prix Sunday.

Wipple Willie Mark II is entered by Christopher Hudson, 15, owner of the late champion, Wipple Willie. The original Wipple was scratched from the race several days ago when Hudson accidentally stepped on him.

The new Wipple was clocked in time trials across a two-foot plate glass course in one minute 45 seconds—30 seconds faster than his deceased stablemate's record.

Wipple Willie Mark II will race against four other worms, with Toy Token Tom considered a strong contender.

The other entrants are Igles Squiggles, Creepy Crawler and Yes Man.

Observatory Wins Point

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP) — The Okanagan-Similkameen Regional District Board Thursday night turned down a bid of Gabriola Wildwood Estates for residential zoning in the area of the $8 million White Lake Radio Astrophysical Observatory 15 miles southwest of here.

The development company had planned to subdivide marginal grazing land in the adjoining Twin Lakes area into between 4,000 and 5,000 residential lots.

Observatory spokesmen had opposed the bid on the grounds that electric motors from household appliances and automobiles would seriously hinder the work done by the observatory.

Communications With Britain Could Deteriorate Sharply

LONDON (AP) — Britain's international telecommunications links could deteriorate sharply during the next few days with unions in several countries expected to demonstrate their sympathy with striking postal workers.

The Union of Postal Workers, which Thursday called for worldwide support, said: "We have been told everything will be ready within three or four days."

A UPW spokesman said postal unions in the United States, France, Japan, New Zealand, Australia and Italy have indicated they are sympathetic to the British strike.

The British postmen want telephone and telex connections on manually-operated exchanges between Britain and other countries cut off. About half of Britain's 300,000 incoming phone calls each week are through non-automatic exchanges.

Britain's manual phone ties with other countries are being maintained at this end by strike-breaking operators.

Throughout the country, the union claimed that today—the second day of Britain's first-ever nationwide postal strike—more than 85 per cent of the 230,000 members stayed away from work.

The government-run post office, however, said nearly 20,000 postmen, telephone operators and counter staff reported for duty.

The UPW is in deadlock with the post office over its demands for a 15-per-cent raise on basic pay of between £15 and £27 a week. The post office offered eight per cent, talks collapsed—and no peace moves were in sight.

AIR CRASH SEQUEL

Paris Blasted After Deaths Of 13 Nuclear Experts

PARIS (AP) — One of France's biggest newspapers castigated the government today for the death in a plane crash of virtually the entire civilian and military high command of France's nuclear strike force.

Thirteen of France's top nuclear weapons experts were killed Thursday when their military plane crashed in a blizzard in the mountains of central France. Eight others aboard also were killed.

The newspaper France-Soleil sharply criticized French military authorities for allowing so many of the key men to travel on the same plane. The paper said this violated a standing rule against joint air travel by top military leaders.

Among those killed was Jacques Mabile, France's top uranium expert and production director of the Atomic Energy Commission; Gen. Edouard Billon, head of nuclear affairs in the arms division of the defence ministry; Jean Bussiere, the AEC financial director; George Tirole, AEC deputy director for military applications; Vice-Admiral Robert Landrin, deputy chief of staff of the armed forces; and Gen. Jean-Marie Pinaud, chief of planning for the chiefs of staff.

Landrin was the operational head of the nuclear force.

Sixteen Missing At Sea

CAGLIARI, Sardinia (AP) — The 83,882-ton American tanker Universe Patriot caught fire after an explosion off Sardinia during the night. Sixteen of the 39-man crew are missing.

Two ships picked up the German captain and 16 of his men early this morning. Later six others were rescued after spending the night in the rough waters in a rubber raft.

The Cagliari military marine headquarters and the civil port authority said their earlier report that 22 men were on the raft was mistaken. Only six men were aboard according to the latest message from the rescue ship, a Panamanian freighter.

Italian officials quoted the rescued captain as saying the tanker had other rubber rafts and the 16 missing men may be on them.

The captain said the crew included 24 Japanese, and the rest of the men were Greek, Indonesian, Portuguese, German, Swedish and Filipino.

There was no leakage of oil because the tanker was bound for Tripoli with water ballast in her tanks after unloading a cargo of crude oil on the French coast.

The Italian Navy reported that the fire had died out this morning, the sea had calmed and the ship was about a mile and a half off Capo Pecora, on the southwest coast of Sardinia.

In other convention business a budget of $75,809 was adopted for this year, compared with $62,540 for 1970.

Governmental 'Deaf Ears' Stir Up Bitter Feelings

B.C. fruit growers are mad enough to march on Victoria.

Frustrated by a lack of government action to help solve marketing problems, delegates to the 82nd annual BCFGa convention in Penticton voted Thursday night to march on Victoria, or docks where foreign fruit is landing, to make their voices heard.

Three amendments were necessary before the 70 grower delegates decided how they wanted to word their motion—but the intention was clear all the way.

They are hurting financially, frustrated, and in some cases desperate because the government has failed to listen to past pleas.

The actual motion passed calls for protest marches by growers on the government and docks, or any other areas deemed appropriate by the BCFGa executive at any time.

Before this motion was adopted growers amended one that was even more strongly worded: to participate in a mass demonstration by forming a convoy of trucks equipped with signs designating their complaints, and drive to Victoria en masse, to demand something be done about the grave problems facing the industry. They also suggested having literature printed listing their complaints, to distribute to citizens along the protest route. But this was left out of the final adopted motion.

Growers took the action because "All requests on behalf of the fruit industry of B.C. to the B.C. Federation of Agriculture for aid in low crop prices and anti-dumping legislation or fair trading practices have apparently fallen on deaf ears."

Growers are upset about prospects of 110,000 boxes of New Zealand apples being imported to B.C., particularly because that country won't take Canadian apples.

There are indications a grower-protest might be at docks when the shipment arrives. The issue, raised by the Rutland-Elliott BCFGa local, touched off considerable discussion. Some growers suggested a more moderate approach, but all admitted the seriousness of the situation.

One said imports are in direct competition with Canadian fruit and drastic action is needed, something that was stressed dozens of times during the three-day convention.

Maybe Embarrassed Already

Another said "Unless we get favorable government action in a short time, a great many growers will be financially embarrassed." This brought a loud reaction from delegates, most of whom indicated that stage had already arrived, or passed.

"We must stop foreign apples from coming in if ours can't go there... it's disrupting the market," said another grower-delegate.

Growers were told France is the biggest apple competitor, with French orchardists subsidized by their government.

"We can't tolerate to be used as a source of tremendous profit to everyone but ourselves," said another angry grower.

Another said growers had received neither financial or political support from the government and they don't need advice on offshore markets, "but on our own."

There was one opposition voice, from a grower who said "You are the victims of your own selling policies. Don't act like a bunch of sheep... riots aren't the answer. You had to wait 50 years to wake up."

He was greeted with a loud round of boos, and was told by a fellow grower "We don't say this (the protest) will solve the problem, but it will help."

Delegates were told if the motion passed the right action would be to form a Valley-wide committee, which could select an executive to organize "an effective and orderly demonstration."

Another grower said some earlier resolutions passed may mean a demonstration isn't needed. Several earlier resolutions seek various government actions. If all were favorably received by the provincial and federal government there probably would be no need for talk of protests, at least not until the 1972 convention.

Former KKK Member Wins Poll To Take Over Kennedy Post

WASHINGTON (CP-AP) — whatever prospect remained that Kennedy might emerge as a contender for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination. The crucial vote was that of the dying Senator Richard Russell of Georgia, cast by proxy. Without it, Byrd said, he never would have run.

Byrd had word from Russell's staff Monday that the proxy vote of the Georgia senator would be cast for him.

"I made up my mind, if he were living, I'd run," Byrd said. "If Senator Russell had not been living, I would not have run."

Byrd walked back into the room and challenged Kennedy. Within four hours, Russell, who had been re-elected president pro-tempore of the Senate at the same caucus, was dead.

Kennedy was elected whip two years ago, but in the Congress that followed, he was often absent, and Byrd moved in to fill the vacancy on the Senate floor.

Byrd, 53, has acknowledged he was once a member of the Ku Klux Klan, a right-wing white supremacy group, 25 or 30 years ago.

He said his KKK membership was the one thing in his life he most regretted.

A TRIBUTE TO WINTER

A few days ago, snowmen were being built by enterprising children in Kelowna and district. With the brief respite of mild weather, snow began melting leaving green grass exposed to the sunlight in some cases. Among the tragedies involving the snowman is this fellow whose sunglasses and sombrero have seen better days. Even the love beads give the impression wintery love can no longer last. By spring, such scenes will be filled as pleasant memories of the long cold winter. (Courier photo)

Trustees Will Reassess Plans For Knox School

School District 23 (Kelowna) trustees will give further study to the Dr. Knox Secondary School problem, Dr. Knox teachers were told Thursday at a special meeting with the school board.

A group of six teachers, representing the school's staff, and Kelowna Teachers' Federation president George Snowdon, met with the board for more than two hours.

"Further research will continue and the board will continue to examine the situation," board chairman J. W. Maddock said.

G. M. Jones, Dr. Knox principal, in his presentation, said the teachers wanted the school to remain a junior-senior secondary as it currently is.

However, board plans call for the school to revert to a junior-secondary school in September with future Grade 11 and 12 students attending classes at Kelowna Secondary.

Rutland Secondary is to be the district's second senior secondary, with George Elliot at Winfield and George Pringle at Westbank remaining combined junior-senior secondary schools for the time being.

John Robinson, one of the teacher-delegates, asked Mr. Maddock why the board did not consult with the teachers about the change in plans.

Mr. Maddock replied: "There are 514 teachers on our staff and it becomes difficult to consult with them all."

"One teacher, like any other individual, has one opinion, another has a second opinion and so it goes."

He added the board indicated earlier it was not pleased with the overcrowding situation at Dr. Knox and that a decision would have to be made on it.

Mr. Snowdon said the KTF executive approved the Dr. Knox brief in principle "because we felt they (the Knox teachers) did their homework."

He added, when the board was considering constructing a new wing at Rutland Secondary, teachers saw the plans.

With the new RSS addition to be built which will see 14 classrooms, Mr. Snowdon said teachers had not seen the new plans.

"They are currently being redrawn," secretary-treasurer Fred Macklin said.

However, Mr. Snowdon added, the board and the KTF meet regularly to discuss common problems.

On another matter, trustee Mrs. Janet Hazland said students from outside the Kelowna Secondary school boundary were attending technical courses and "allowed to obtain an enriched educational program."

"A number of academic students are taking technical courses at KSS," she said.

"By transferring students to KSS, we are preparing them for the big world where they will have to live in a few short years."

The Lighter Side Of Flying At Kelowna C Of C 'Fun Night'

The annual general meeting and installation of Kelowna Chamber of Commerce officers is scheduled for 8 p.m. tonight at the Capri Motor Hotel.

No Union, At Least Not Yet

B.C. fruit growers have considered becoming unionized. They decided Thursday, at least for now, not to, but the idea has been planted.

Continuing protests about an inability to get almost anyone to do anything about their problems, growers considered their criticism of government inaction.

A resolution calling for investigation of possibly joining "an effective union in agriculture, where direct methods can be employed to gain our objectives," was finally amended, but not before growers made their feelings known.

They were told it is becoming increasingly difficult for an individual to survive under present economic conditions. And they are concerned their small organization, the BCFGA, can't exert enough pressure on the provincial and federal governments. They also wonder if the B.C. Federation of Agriculture can either.

Delegates finally decided to convey their desire to seek the full support of the BCFA and have it take what action it can to seek a remedy for the situation and let the public and governments know about the problems.

Arts Council Convention Saturday

Guest speaker at the afternoon sessions will be regional librarian Peter Loft, who will address the gathering on libraries in the '70s.

All KDAC members are invited to attend the convention.

HAVE YOU SEEN OUR TRASH CAN?

The trash can trophy is missing.

No one is saying it's stolen, but no one seems to know where the old battered can is.

"That's what we get for insuring it," said one organizer of Saturday's fourth renewal of the schmockey game. "As soon as you put a price on something someone always wants it."

The trophy was insured for 79 cents early this week.

Members of the insurance firm which wrote the policy say they'll do everything they can to get the can.

Leading the hunt is insurance agent Cliff Charles, who is also chairman of the indoor swimming pool campaign, which gets half the proceeds from the game. The other half goes to Kelowna Teen Town charities.

"We'll get it back somehow before the 8 p.m. gametime," said one concerned spokesman, "even if we have to bring Igor back to help search."

No Licence Results In $500 Fine

Driving while under suspension cost a fine of $500 for Robin Ricketts of Kelowna, on a plea of guilty to the charge in provincial court today before Judge D. M. White.

The accused was also prohibited from driving a vehicle for two years.

John Watson of Kelowna, received a suspended sentence on a plea of guilty to a charge of theft under $50. The accused was released on a $500 peace bond.

Five charges of obtaining goods under false pretenses resulted in one day in jail and 18 months probation against William Patrick Jones of Winfield, who pleaded guilty to the charges.

He was ordered by the court to make $170 restitution.

A warrant of arrest was issued by the court for Robert Hunt of Kelowna, charged with common assault.

In provincial court Thursday before Judge D. M. White, a charge of supplying liquor to a minor against Raymond Garry Kryschuk of Rutland, was dismissed.

Edward Sandy of Rutland, was fined $200 on a plea of guilty to a charge of operating a vehicle while having an alcohol blood count exceeding .08 per cent.

SEEN and HEARD

Birds—like humans—tend to keep out of sight during the really wintery days. But Thursday, on the lake, about six swans were seen happily feeding in the middle of a snowstorm. This was the first sighting of these elegant birds off the West Avenue access road since fall.

Immaculata High School drama buffs are bringing out of retirement, Ladies In Retirement, a much-favored box-office attraction. The costumed production will go on the boards at St. Joseph's Hall starting Feb. 4 to 5.

Women drivers have to confuse other motorists, muses one Kelowna motorist. One such woman stepped from her car at a red light and cleared mist off her windows, causing some men to shake their heads in disbelief.

John Zdravak joins 12 other participants in the Kelowna Yacht Club's spring regatta finals by placing first in the group's Thursday regatta tournament with 128 points. Cliff Gallant was second with 104 and Frank Duchaser third with 78.

Sentences Reduced

Two young men sentenced to three years in jail for drug trafficking in Kelowna have had their sentences decreased.

Larry Joseph Gibeau and Carlo Edward Borgnetta were each sentenced to three years by Judge A. D. C. Washington who referred to the sentences as a "deterrent."

The sentence of Gibeau was reduced to nine months, not including incarceration to this time, and the sentence of Borgnetta was reduced to 15 months by a three-man tribunal sitting in the B.C. Court of Appeal.

In a three-page disposition, the three judges indicated rehabilitation as well as deterrence was considered.

Problems Outlined In BCFGA Meetings

PROBLEM PLAGUED GROWERS DOUBLE THEIR WORK LOAD

Fruit growers doubled their resolutions load this year. Meeting for three days at their 82nd annual convention in Penticton, the 70 delegates representing some 3,200 BCFGA members handled 58 resolutions, compared with only about 30 in Vernon last January.

Of the total 42 were presented before the convention and 16 were late resolutions.

Spending most of the last day on resolutions, delegates approved 28; defeated 14; withdrew seven; tabled two and didn't discuss seven of the late issues.

Of the 58 resolutions, 18 were submitted by Kelowna area BCFGA locals.

Dealing with a variety of industry situations and problems, these came from growers in Rutland-Ellison, south and east Kelowna, Glenmore Westbank, Okanagan Mission-Kelowna, Winfield-Okanagan Centre and Oyama.

Plea For Space Made By Regatta

Kelowna Chamber of Commerce officials, "still not sure where we'll be ourselves," Thursday turned down a request from the Kelowna Regatta Association for office space.

The association, which Thursday announced the appointment of a manager, sought office space, use of equipment and secretarial help from the chamber at a suggested cost of $75 per month.

Chamber directors, faced with decisions resulting from city council's refusal to grant them $20,000 to operate a 1971 visitor and convention bureau for the city, moved they not commit themselves to any agreement "at this time."

Vice-president D. J. Bremner said he felt "we're in too much of a state of flux to make any decision on this matter."

The executive meeting was told the chamber rents its office space on the west end of Okanagan Lake Bridge on a monthly basis from the department of highways.

The price is $123 a month. But directors indicated not being in the visitor and convention business this year could mean a change of location.

Not getting a grant could also mean a cutback in staff under chamber manager William Stevenson. Presently employed are three female office employees and a part time accountant.

"We hope it will not come to that," said Mr. Bremner, "and we're attempting to determine now just how we'll be affected."

The sole source of funds, at present, is derived from chamber membership which is causing the organization some problems.

Directors formed a committee to study what moves should be made in relation to their financial situation.

President Ron Alexander stressed the chamber should still be ready to assist the city with any plans it has in moving into the convention business.

Visitor and convention bureau chairman E. D. MacLachlan added the province as a whole is gearing for one of its biggest tourist years.

A request for support from a private northern air line proposing service out of Kelowna will be turned over to the city airport advisory committee for recommendation. Thunderbird Airlines, in a letter to the chamber, said it is proposing to extend its service to include flights from the Okanagan north to Kamloops and Prince George.

The chamber, earlier endorsing efforts to have Okanagan Mountain Park dedicated as a class A park, was informed Thursday the provincial government is still not ready to entertain the idea. A letter to the chamber reiterated the government view that the park is a regional responsibility and should be developed by the two regional districts in which it is located.

Social Planning Vital Aspect Of Community Development

Social planning must be a comprehensive scheme and must encompass economic and physical planning, Maurice Egan, Vancouver's director of social planning and community development, said Wednesday.

Speaking to the Central Okanagan Social Planning Council, Mr. Egan said the community and its residents should co-operate in the planning.

"To have a good plan, the entire community's services should be integrated."

"Planning can't be done in isolation," he said.

"You can't plan unless you have consensus from those you plan for."

By involving the community, major mistakes which could be costly to correct might be eliminated, he told the more than 40 members attending.

Turning his attention to the youth situation, he said the peak in the youth population will not be reached during the 1970s.

Currently, there are 32,000 students in Grade 12, throughout the province, he said, adding in 1976, education officials project there will be 46,000 students.

"I can tell you it won't taper off until the 1980s."

"Young people find British Columbia attractive and they all can't find employment."

"As a result, our social welfare rolls increase by 3,000 per month."

"I don't know how Kelowna will ward off this influx," he added.

Bill Hunter of Lakeland Realty was elected president of the Kelowna division of the Okanagan Mainline Real Estate Board, at the annual meeting Wednesday at Capri.

Other officers include Gordon Funnell, Orchard City Realty, vice president; Mrs. E. M. Patterson, Midvalley Realty, Rutland, secretary-treasurer; Larry Chalmers, Collinson Mortgage and D. E. Winfield, Regatta City Realty, directors; Alan Patterson, Midvalley Realty, past president.

Representatives to the board are W. Ed. Collinson, Collinson Mortgage and Basil Melkie, Carruthers & Melkie.

Special guests at the meeting included C. H. Williams, secretary-manager, OMREB, Sam Pearson, Kelowna Division, sales president and J. C. Doak.

Not All Answers Seen In Government Measures

B.C. fruit growers need better market development and higher prices for their products.

But they are not completely agreed on how to achieve their aim. This was evident Thursday during the final session of the 82nd annual BCFGA convention in Penticton.

Several resolutions seek action by various levels of government, but some growers insist they are best equipped to solve their own problems.

One indication of this was a resolution seeking a federal marketing study, to examine all aspects of sales, distribution and competition in Western Canada.

The motion was eventually defeated, but the intention was there and the points made. Growers were told studies can take months, or years, to complete, and they finally agreed with B.C. Tree Fruits and Sun-Rype Products general manager Ian Greenwood, who said action was needed more than a study.

On the home front, growers agreed to seek improved weather forecasting. They are not concerned about whether the temperature will be 65 or 70, but they do want to know more accurately if it will be 26, instead of 29. But mainly they seek long-range predictions.

Again on marketing, the 70 delegates representing some 3,200 BCFGA members agreed to have a study made of possible direct sales to consumers. Earlier in the convention they rejected a move to go immediately into direct sales, deciding instead to check the situation first.

One grower said "If the government doesn't come up with a constructive policy, God help us."

GOVERNMENT APATHY

Another said "We got two cents last year and the consumer paid 29. Government apathy has put us in this position."

Defeated was a resolution seeking to have the Summerland research station experiment with new machinery and irrigation facilities and advise growers about their findings.

A research station official said the station wasn't in the business of testing new equipment.

"Our role is research, not consumer reporting," he said.

Another grower said more of the information sought is already available at the Summerland operation.

As usual, delegates faced a heavy agenda of resolutions the last day. Of the 58 on the floor, only 11 were handled the first two days.

Following are highlights of some other resolutions not dealt with in detail in other convention stories:

Defeated was a resolution seeking a secret ballot by growers for positions on various industry boards. Speaking against the motion, one grower said:

"Delegates can be kicked out just as quickly as they are elected."

Approved was a move to have the BCFGA investigate all means of maximizing returns to growers from direct sales to consumers.

Also approved was a resolution to approach the B.C. department of forestry to request that slash burning be prohibited until Oct. 15. Growers were told smoke from slash burning prevents the sun's rays from properly coloring apples and heat from the fires eliminates the cool evenings also necessary for proper coloring.

Given the nod by delegates was a resolution authorizing the industry to investigate present procedures in truck pick-ups from packing houses. Growers were told trucks often have to drive many miles and make several stops to get a load. They were also told industry officials are already examining the situation.

The final late resolution approved, after a two-hour night session, calls for B.C. Tree Fruits to specify what apple varieties it thinks will be saleable in future.

IT HAPPENED IN CANADA

Short Takes

A Short Takes reader reports that he and his wife were mystified the other day by the water in their toilet bowl waving back and forth. We had heard of the apartment dwellers in that 30? 40? 60? storey apartment building in Chicago having white caps in the same place during a high wind, but never had we heard of it at ground level, short of an earthquake. However, there was a high wind that day and our reader wonders if there was not some air pressure involved somehow. Still, it must have been a bit startling.

Another Short Takes reader confesses he would like to go to the high school parking lot and let all the air out of the tires of the cars parked there. There'd be a great scurrying and shouting, he says. He maintains it would be a justified reprisal for the throwing of snowballs at cars by the students, as happened on Chapman Place last week. At noon hour students amused themselves by pitching snowballs at travelling cars, often obscuring the driver's vision. In one case the driver's window was down and he was hit on the side of the face. These amusements can cause accidents. And we thought snowballing was for little immature boys, not high school students.

One wonders why the traffic control committee has never considered parking restrictions on Strathcona between Pandosy and Abbott, past the hospital. Despite a great deal of available and unused parking area for the staff, it is rare that there is an available parking space on this street. A two-hour limit would seem to be reasonable and in order. At least it would force the sleepers to use the paved, now unused lots.

We see by the papers that a Canadian scholar claims a Roman landed in Mexico some 1,400 years before Christopher Columbus hit Tobago. Other researchers have had the ancient Egyptians, Phoenicians, Irish, Vikings and Polynesians landing on American shores well ahead of Columbus. And many back their theories with evidence. It is only a question of time before every ancient and medieval civilization has been given credit for beating Columbus. But, really, that's neither here nor there. None of the others established permanent ties with the Old World, thus leading to the development of the New World in its present state. Christopher Columbus, and he alone, must take the blame for that.

In 1969, it was minis and long hair; in 1970, midis and shorter hair. Will ankle-length dresses and shaved skulls make a comeback in 1971?

Marriage Still Popular

"In the face of both structural and cultural changes, the family is remarkably stable even though strain and tension must inevitably be its lot during these decades of social transition." These welcome words of reassurance on one of mankind's great and priceless sources of strength and stability come from a recent study at the University of Southern California. And it goes on to say, "Marriage still increases in popularity" because of "the increasing need in our lonely and isolated world for a small group system assuring companionship and intimacy."

Today, says the Christian Science Monitor, many are ready to ring the death-knell over wedlock. They look, with quite proper concern, at the mounting divorce rate, the growing tendency to disregard the marriage vows, the tendency to form households among unmarried individuals, and question whether marriage will survive in a recognizable form.

Nor is their anxiety misplaced. It is unquestionably true that marriage is under attack from many quarters and by many philosophies. Loosening moral standards, and the distractions and tensions of an ever more complex world have both robbed wedlock of many formerly taken-for-granted safeguards and confronted it with multiplying temptations. The result is a serious crisis for that institution which, perhaps more than any other, has been the breeder and preserver of human progress.

But while it is right to view with concern, it is wrong to view with despair. The good in human institutions, like the good in men, has a remarkable and wonderful tenacity. Based on men's highest present concept of what is right and desirable, wedlock has roots deep in mankind's instinct for self-preservation, protection, growth, comfort and love. Over the centuries marriages have been growing purer and higher in character. Monogamy spreads steadily across the globe. Woman's place in this partnership is gradually but surely upgraded. Laws seek to do away with injustice in marriage, making it more satisfying. And today, according to the study already cited, the percentage of American women in their twenties who will apparently marry now comes to an astonishing 97 per cent. This compares with the 90 per cent of those women over 55 who, in 1965, were found to have wed.

The real challenge today is not so much to make sure that marriage will survive, as to increase its effectiveness for good, for the raising of mankind's moral outlook, for the rearing of better and happier offspring, for the continued advance for women, and for a wider recognition of what is lost when what is fine in wedlock is downgraded. This can best be done by a clearer realization of marriage's unique role as a vehicle for mankind's progress.

What Is An Amateur?

The Associated Press reports from London that the International Olympic Committee officials have been getting down to straight-talking with heads of various international sports federations in an effort to find a common Olympics definition of an amateur. This is the replaying of a cracked record which goes round and round emitting the same lines year after year.

What's wrong with the Shorter Oxford English Dictionary's first definition of an amateur: "One who loves, is fond of, or has a taste for, anything." Surely pecuniary gain fits snuggly into the omnibus word "anything."

So if the officials will just accept the authority, everyone will be covered: track and field athletes who may look for and find a little currency in their shoe, hockey players who receive wages usually below NHL scales, skiers who advertise equipment for a consideration, performers who take compensation only for broken time and training and, bless them, people who participate in sport just for the fun of it.

The Shorter Oxford has the answer. Why bother to look further?

NEWS ANALYSIS

A Marked Change On Powers Front

By PHILIP DEANE
Foreign Affairs Analyst

The marked change in the relations between the Russians and Western Europe has been that they now tend to deal directly with Europe whereas before they dealt with Washington on European matters. Washington wonders aloud about what has caused the change, how far the change will go and to what extent it will affect America's relations with Europe.

One school of thought in Washington maintains that Russia is now dealing directly with Europe in order to detach Europe from U.S. influence and that, therefore, the U.S. should resist the growth of Russian influence and on no account withdraw U.S. troops from Europe.

Does this mean — according to this school of thought — that Russia is now more militant, more willing than before to challenge the U.S.? The answer the Pentagon gives is "yes." Russia, say the military, is now approaching nuclear parity with U.S., has developed a fleet, has demonstrated it can crush any dissent among its satellites with impunity, and is challenging American domination in Europe, trying to get the U.S. contingents off European land and back into the United States. The Pentagon wants every aspect of U.S. influence used to resist this trend.

Another school of thought in Washington cautiously welcomes the development of better relations between Russia and Western Europe. Russia needs Western European technology, say the doves in Washington and will trade so extensively with Europe that Europe will boom.

Russia too will boom and rising prosperity in Russia has led to challenges by the intellectuals against the system. Despite occasional recurring repression, the Russians have had to release the restraints they earlier imposed on their intellectuals. Hence, according to Washington doves, the relaxation of tensions in Europe will make Russia easier not harder to live with.

These doves do not believe that a sinister, anti-American, Moscow conspiracy should be seen in what is now going on in Europe. The relaxation is inevitable and is more a result of German rather than Russian initiative. Germany renounced the use of force and dispelled some of the visceral, unthinking fear of Germany felt in Eastern Europe as a consequence of the two world wars.

Russia's unthinking fear of Germany has now been replaced — Washington's doves say — by a terrible fear of China. It is this fear which makes Russia mend its western fences. To keep its western frontiers safe, Russia, according to Washington's doves — will be careful not to frighten Western Europe.

Uniform Operating Laws Planned For Snowmobiles Across Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — The transport department, which has laid down its own safety rules for snowmobile construction, is working out uniform operating laws with the provinces, the Commons has been told.

Transport Minister Don Jamieson has held meetings with his provincial counterparts to establish running rules to match the federal construction regulations that took effect Jan. 1.

Vehicles built after April 1 this year will have to have minimum braking ability as well as front and rear lights and reflectors.

1972 models must have accelerators that stop automatically when the driver removes his hand, and easily-gripped handles for passengers.

Snowmobile engines must be muted to a noise level of 82 decibels.

Under federal regulations, snowmobiles will be required to have one or two white headlamps with high and low beams, one or to tail-lights, one or to red stop lamps on the rear and one or two rear reflectors.

In addition they will be required to have red reflectors on each side of the vehicle and reflective material forward on the handlebars or steering mechanism on each side.

REFLECTORS NECESSARY
Cutters — the unpowered trailers — also must have reflectors at the rear and sides.

Every vehicle must bear the maker's registration number, similar to that on a car. The edge of the skis on snowmobiles and cutters will have to be protected by a bend large enough to completely cover the edge and extending around the nose of the ski.

Stiff Approach By Canada Urged On Seaway Squeeze

OTTAWA (CP) — A government-commissioned report recommends a stiff, independent approach by Canada to ease the economic squeeze on the Canadian section of the St. Lawrence seaway.

The report, by D. W. Carr and Associates Ltd., recommends among other things a 25-per cent toll increase by Canada over the next five years although this could involve breaking a tradition of seaway co-operation with the United States.

Present toll arrangements date back to 1959. The recommendation follows a move by the U.S. earlier this month to lift financial pressures from the American section of the seaway as a means of eliminating the need for toll increases.

The report, tabled by Transport Minister Don Jamieson, says the U.S. will likely strongly oppose Canadian efforts to raise tolls since Canada now pays a heavy share of seaway costs leaving the Americans in a relatively comfortable position.

MAY ACT ALONE

Canada could, however, act unilaterally to increase charges in areas under Canadian jurisdiction.

Initial reaction to the report from the shipping industry was predictably opposed.

Lawson Kaake, vice-president of Upper Lakes Shipping, said in Toronto increased seaway tolls would probably inhibit shipping through the locks, "especially grain and iron ore."

In Montreal J. W. McGiffin, president and chief executive officer of Canada Steamship Lines, said the suggestion was "shocking news."

"This will hurt the whole inland shipping industry," he said.

The report also recommended a financial re-structuring of the seaway.

This need not require complete write-offs of established capital obligations. It would, however, exempt the seaway from re-payments of capital investment unless revenues became sufficient for this.

Only those public capital investments which could be shown to be self-supporting could be assigned for recovery under the proposed re-structuring plan.

FORGIVES DEBT

The recent American legislation forgives the U.S. seaway authority more than $22 million owed to the government in interest.

No further interest will be charged by the U.S. treasury on the $133.5 million U.S. seaway debt. Interest still is charged on the Canadian debt of about $400 million.

Canadian authorities are under added pressure to find additional sources of revenue because of salary demands now being put forward by 1,300-seaway workers in Canada, members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers. The report did not deal with this issue.

The Canadians and Americans met in 1968 to discuss raising tolls but decided to leave them at the same levels, stipulating that either country could call a further meeting this year.

Mr. Jamieson said outside the Commons Tuesday there would not likely be a toll increase this year but he emphasized that Canada has the authority to raise its own tolls unilaterally.

Canada, the report says, provides about two-thirds of the over-all public investment in canals, locks and connecting channels. On the lakes and rivers above Lake Erie, the U.S. provided most of the investment but its use of these facilities also was predominant.

On the waterway below Lake Erie, the U.S. provided about 11 per cent of the public investment but had 50 per cent of the Canada-U.S. seaway traffic to Montreal and 33 per cent from Montreal to the Atlantic.

WANTS TO MEET COSTS
The report quotes statements from the transport department on the government's desire to recover the costs of operating transport systems from charges to users and other beneficiaries as far as possible.

But in 1969, the report said, only about one-third of Canada's annual expenditures for the St. Lawrence waterway were recovered.

Under existing conditions, Canada carried about six-sevenths of the deficits and five-sixths of the investment costs of the seaway although Canadians and Americans had about equal shares of traffic.

Mr. Jamieson said he was going to Washington today on another matter but hoped to talk to transportation officials there concerning the Carr report.

The report says seaway traffic will not likely increase as fast during the next 15 years as it did during the 1960s. But if the waterway is properly managed it can be a strong economic concern.

If, as seemed likely, seaway services were increased, governments would probably become more involved. Government capital expenditures would rise accordingly.

A rise in the annual Canadian seaway deficit to $100 million or more in 1985 from $67.7 million in 1969 was also likely.

Essence Of British System Grasped At PMs' Conference

SINGAPORE (CP) — Commonwealth countries proved at their conference, which ends today, that apart from anything else which may have happened they have all grasped the essence of the British system of government and parliament.

One of the great British traditions, adopted by Canada a century or more ago, is: When in doubt, form a committee. And leave its terms of reference as hazy as possible.

The big debate of the conference on Britain's plan to sell naval arms to South Africa resolved nothing. Nobody changed his position on the issue.

So the 31 leaders talked privately through four sittings totalling about 11 hours and — presto — a committee.

WON'T BIND ANYONE

The committee does not bind anyone to do anything. In fact, all the leaders formally agreed with the British statement that the establishment of the committee does not prevent Britain from taking whatever action it wants about the arms.

The committee, of which Canada is a reluctant member, will study the needs for making trade routes in the Indian and South Atlantic oceans safe — if they aren't safe already, that is.

A Canadian official was asked Thursday what in the world Canada is doing on the committee especially after Prime Minister Trudeau had said in India that Canada has little or no concern with defence problems, if any, in the Indian Ocean.

Well, the official said, Canada has a kind of record in these things. All that United Nations peacekeeping and the like. Canada automatically seemed to get on such groups despite demurring or even protesting.

Who would Canada's representative on the committee be?

Not known yet. When would the committee meet?

Fairly soon. When would it report to the heads of government?

As soon as possible. When would that be?

Oh, you know, months. Will Canada be the chairman?

The other seven countries on the committee might name Canada chairman.

Has Canada any knowledge about the defence of the sea lanes of the Indian Ocean and South Atlantic?

Not the slightest. Will the committee device work?

Surely you know how committees work. If this committee bottles up the arms issue for some months it will be a huge success.

And if it doesn't? We'll set up another committee to study why this one failed.

Open Hearth Furnaces On Way Out As U.S. Steel Industry 'Depollutes'

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Anti-pollution laws are spurring the United States steel industry to accelerate its conversion from open hearths to oxygen furnaces, and unemployment is expected to accelerate with it.

The switch from the dirty open hearth to the more efficient basic oxygen furnace, called BOF, was begun six years ago. It has been stepped up in recent months as state and local pollution control regulations have been pressed on steelmakers.

It takes about half as much manpower to operate a BOF as it does to run an open hearth furnace. A BOF can produce steel in an hour, while it takes an open hearth eight hours. All this means that it will continue to take fewer men to make more steel.

The U.S. steel industry is facing the possibility of a strike in August and stockpiling will create a temporary boom in the industry.

Work will be good and production for the first eight months of 1971 will be extremely high.

The United Steelworkers union says it took 461,800 production and maintenance men to produce a total of 99.3 million tons of ingot steel in 1960. In 1969, it took only 428,000 production and maintenance men to turn out 141.3 million tons of ingot steel.

TODAY in HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jan. 22, 1971 . . .

Russian troops fired on a peaceful march of workmen in St. Petersburg 66 years ago today — in 1905 — and killed about 1,000. It was "Bloody Sunday" and the beginning of a revolution, fanned by news of the disastrous war with Japan. Czar Nicholas II considered abdication but peace was signed Sept. 5 of the same year and the revolution was put off by granting a parliament and ordering a series of police raids. It was during these months that the Russian political parties of 1917 were established.

1919 — The Chinese Nationalists surrendered Peking to the Communists.

1947 — An Indian assembly voted unanimously to adopt a resolution proclaiming India a sovereign and independent republic.

1944 — Allied troops landed on the Anzio beachhead in Italy.

1912 — Japanese troops landed in New Guinea and the Solomon Islands in the Second World War.

OUR ECONOMY

Inflation Fear Abates

By FRANK FLAHERTY

OTTAWA — It is now clear the inflation about which governments and other institutions have been worrying for the past two years has abated. Prices are going down instead of up. Wage and salary increases will continue for some time as groups who feel their incomes didn't keep pace with increases in costs of living struggle for equity.

Business profits, which, according to the prices and incomes commission in many cases lagged behind both price and wage increases during the upward shift, may edge upwards slightly but not so rapidly as they tend to rise less rapidly than wages and salaries.

Much of the attention which has focussed on movements in prices and incomes issued by the prices and incomes commission, an agency created in 1969.

RESTRAINING BOOM

For the first year of its existence, and, indeed, for part of 1970, the commission's main activities were directed towards restraining the boom it found in progress. It preached restraints, promulgated guidelines and embarked on an ambitious educational program to inform Canadians about the workings of the price mechanism under the private enterprise system.

Its views received at least verbal support from business but no support at all from organized labor. The trade unions declined to conform to the limits the commission propounded as proper increases in salaries and wages.

There was talk of compulsory controls. Union spokesmen and leftist politicians appeared to favor them provided they included controls on business profits. Such controls are beyond the power of the federal parliament in peacetime and no one seemed to think it possible to get all provincial legislatures to enact valid laws to control wages.

PRICE RISE HALTED
Despite the lack of control and despite labor's non-acceptance of voluntary restraint prices have turned down. Unemployment has risen. The consumer price index has stopped.

In December the consumer price index was slightly lower than in December, 1969. The significance of this change of direction remains to be appreciated. Pre-Christmas sales by shopkeepers may have been a temporary dampening influence.

The prices and incomes commission now says what happens in 1971 depends whether the upward trend in wage and salary increases slows down.

If it does there may be stability and reasonably high employment. Business profits and farm incomes are apt to be lower than last year. These sectors will contribute less to inflation than they have in the past. Governments are starting to spend more on public works but, unless things get worse and money becomes easier, are not likely to go all-out.

In the circumstances it is hard to see too far ahead. For the short run, however — say the first half of 1971 — it's safe to say that caution will pay off better than enthusiasm when it comes to spending money.

Buyers who wait are more apt to get a better deal than those who rush into spending. Sellers who hold out for more profit than they can make are apt to lose out to those who have profits to match reductions in consumer spending power.

Volunteer Services Grown Hospital Auxiliary Told

The annual and general meeting of the Kelowna Hospital Auxiliary was held in the hospital lecture room on Jan. 18. Four new members introduced were: Mrs. N. Chapman, Miss D. Thorne, Mrs. E. C. Marshall and Mrs. H. P. Schaeffer.

Mrs. Len Leathley, director of volunteer services, reported that since the opening of block B, the volunteer services have grown from 88 volunteers in 1969 to 136 in 1970 along with 28 "candy strippers" and they donated a total of 8,470 hours of their time up to the end of December.

There are also two volunteer hairdressers visiting patients twice a week in the new block C. Candy strippers are also on this ward.

Volunteers to work afternoons in the extended care unit are needed and anyone wishing to do this work is asked to contact Mrs. Leathley at 764-4387 or at the hospital.

Mrs. Ron Turk, dance convener, reported that tickets for "A Night in Las Vegas" will go on public sale Feb. 1. The dance will be held in the Rutland Centennial Hall, March 5. The annual Blossom Fair will be held May 15 on the lawn at the rear of the city hall or in the arena in the event of rain. Anyone who is moving or cleaning house and has articles for the White Elephant booth is asked to contact Mrs. Basil Meikle at 762-2308 for pick-up.

Mrs. H. R. Cookson reported that there is now a tax number for donations to the memorial fund.

The meeting was then adjourned for the annual meeting. Last year's executive members read their reports.

The outgoing president, Mrs. H. Cookson, summarized the year's activities. She said that since the opening of the two new additions to the hospital—block B, the acute care unit and block C, the extended care unit, there is an even greater need for the auxiliary to provide funds to purchase new equipment and to do voluntary work, especially in unit C where assistance with patient care is so vital.

PROJECTS

The fund-raising projects outside the hospital included the sale of memo calendars, the annual dance, Blossom Time fair, the used book and record sale and a dessert bridge. Within the hospital, the projects include TV rentals and baby count. A new project, the newborn baby photo service should be in operation within the next two weeks as soon as the folders are printed.

Mrs. John Henshaw presented the nominating slate and Mrs. Leathley installed the new officers.

The 1971 executive consists of: Mrs. W. F. Morton, president; Mrs. G. D. Shaw, first vice-president; Mrs. G. W. K. Thorkelson, second vice-president; Mrs. R. M. Turk, secretary; Mrs. S. Miller, treasurer; Mrs. Donald Day, buyer; Mrs. J. Stuart, assistant buyer; Mrs. Victor Pashnik, social convener and Mrs. John Hensley, volunteer services liaison officer.

Mrs. Basil Meikle was appointed public relations officer and Mrs. K. B. Day will again be editor of the auxiliary news sheet.

Before adjourning the meeting, the new president thanked Mrs. Cookson for her leadership during the last year and presented her with the past president's pin.

ANN LANDERS

Vasectomy Not Legal In Some States

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you stated in your column that the vasectomy was legal in all states. This is to inform you that Section 17-19 of the Connecticut General Statutes allows vasectomy only on individuals who "would produce children with an inherited tendency to crime, mental illness or mental deficiency." Furthermore, Section 53-33 of the Connecticut General Statutes makes it illegal for anyone to perform, assist in, or otherwise promote the performance of the operation described in Section 17-19.

The penalty for violation of this statute is a fine of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment for not more than five years or both.

Your advice seems to be in violation of Section 53-33 since you appear to be promoting vasectomy in situations where there is no medical necessity. —D.C.H. (Hartford Attorney).

Dear Hart: I appreciate your writing and I stand corrected. Your letter hints that I may be subject to a $1,000 fine and five years in stir, on the grounds that I am promoting vasectomy. I am not a promoter. I am a columnist who expresses views on a variety of subjects. Birth control is one of those subjects. I believe that people who want to limit the size of their families should be free to utilize any technique which they consider suitable for them—without interference from church or state.

Dear Ann Landers: Vasectomy is not legal in Texas because it may constitute legal mutilation, which is defined as depriving an organ of its function.—H.A.T. (M.D.)

Dear Doc: I hope one day in the not-too-distant future the Texas legislators will acknowledge the fact that some organs have more than one function. Thanks for letting me know that they have not yet reached this point.

Mrs. Surtees Attends Museum Meeting In Victoria Recently

Mrs. John Surtees of the Kelowna Centennial Museum attended an executive meeting of the British Columbia Museums Association Jan. 15, in Victoria. The BCMA does a fair amount of work each year in a number of fields.

At the annual general meeting last September, a number of resolutions were passed and it is now the duty of the executive to try to carry these resolutions through to a conclusion.

Concern has been felt for some time about protecting the copyright of Indian designs. A resolution passed as follows: "That, since there appears to be unauthorized reproduction of native Haida Indian Art Forms in this province, the association go on record as requesting that the appropriate authorities determine whether or not the rights of Indian artists are being infringed and thereby, precluded from the benefit of any royalty rights."

This resolution has been followed up and the result is a test case that will be coming before the courts shortly—the results of which will be followed with interest.

Another important resolution was to urge the Canadian Museum Association with the support of the BCMA to make known to the federal authorities the concern felt over the extensive removal and spoilage of antiquities. Most countries already have protection for their national treasures, ensuring they cannot be removed from the country. Most European and South American countries have very strict laws governing the removal to other countries of totems or monuments of national interest. Canada so far has none. However progress is slowly being made, and a meeting is coming up in February, of members of the Museum Association and federal representatives.

Library Classification Topic At University Women's Meeting

A brief history of library classifications was outlined by Mabel Fraser at the January meeting of the Kelowna University Women's Club Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Donald Jabour. She illustrated in detail and reviewed the widely used Dewey system.

With president, Mrs. E. R. Pelly chairing the meeting, the 18 members and guests present enjoyed the breakdown of the function, volume and services rendered by the Okanagan Regional Library by guest speaker Mrs. Nigel Polley, branch manager of the Kelowna library.

A general description of the British Columbia book collection available to library members concluded her lively and informative presentation.

General discussion and questions were continued during refreshments.

The meeting held Tuesday night also heard a report by Mrs. G. H. Montgomery on the Canadian Federation of University Women's work on the status of women report. Study of this report in detail is planned for future meetings.

A recommendation to Bruce Howard, M.P., to remove the abortion laws from the Criminal Code has been sent to Ottawa. This does not include, however, abortions performed outside of the medical profession.

BUCKAROOS AND . . .

That Winning Attitude Awaits Vernon Tonight

By LORNE WHITE
Courier Sports Editor

"For the first time this season, we've got that winning attitude, and the guys are working as a unit."

That's how the Kelowna Buckaroos' captain and leading scorer, Doug Manchak, assessed the club's recent resurgence in the B.C. Junior Hockey League.

Manchak, selected to the B.C.J.H.L.'s all-star team Wednesday, has been one of the few bright spots for the last place Buckaroos throughout the season, being the fifth highest goal scorer in the league, despite the poor showing of the Bucks in the standings, and staying on the top 20 scoring list for the past three weeks.

His line, centered by Bryan "Moby" Matlock and flanked by Gerry "Frits" Feist on the right side, has all but carried the Bucks on their backs until just recently, scoring 55 of the team's 113 goals this season.

"During our long winless streak (23 games), most of the guys would go out on the ice wondering how much they would lose by," pointed out the Fort St. John native.

SPRIT HIGH

"But after that win over Kamloops, which showed we could play and win as a unit, the spirit has been really high and I think it showed during the road trip last weekend."

The Bucks tied Vancouver Centennials, second place in the Coastal division 5-5 Friday after leading 5-3 in the second period, lost to New Westminster 4-3 Saturday, blowing a 3-1 lead, and the next day downed Chilliwack 2-1, taking 40 shots on the Bruin goaltender, who was the main reason the locals were unable to at least triple their output.

Manchak sees at least two good reasons for the club's "togetherness," which he feels is the key to a winning junior club.

"I think the two Kene (Weninger and Selinger) have really lifted the club more than any other single factor," he says.

"In that game against Kamloops, Selinger looked like 'super pest' himself," referring to Vancouver Canucks hustling center Andre "Boudrias," and really got us thinking about our own efforts, or lack of it—it was the spark we needed.

"And Weninger, the 'kid' on the club, was keeping pace on the same line, which too made most of us think twice."

The high-flying leftwinger, in his second season with the Buckaroos, had praise for his other rookie teammates also, and attributed much of the team's recent success to their defensive play.

FRONT TO BACK: DOUG MANCHAK, BRIAN MATLOCK, GERRY FEIST

—(Courier photo)

"Bruce (Gerlach) and Foxy (Greg Fox) along with Ian (MacCrimmon) have come up with some great efforts during the past couple of weeks and have made it a lot easier for the forwards to stay loose and improve their scoring."

"Over-all, I think we can do a lot better than we have recently with a few breaks," he said, pointing out the three weekend encounters in which they gave away leads and outshot the opposition.

About the Buckaroos' encounter with the third place Vernon Essos tonight, Manchak seemed confident of the club's chances to continue their winning ways, but hinted that it would be a tough "battle" against the northern squad which tied the Bucks 3-3 the last time they came to town.

SHYED AWAY

"Since I've been here, there has always been an attitude to shy away from the Vernon antagonizers like Dye (Wayne), and Bob Craig," he said with some reluctance.

"But since about Christmas, the club, although the smallest in the league, has been a lot tougher and are standing up to the bigger, stronger teams and I think Vernon will be in for a big surprise if they continue their rough business."

Manchak also pointed the incident in Chilliwack when a Bruin started a pushing session with their policeman Gordie Merritt, which resulted in most of each bench being emptied and 17 game misconducts being handed out, with 22 seconds remaining in the game.

"You could almost feel the club come together when that happened. Everyone, including little Charlie Huck, was out to give the club some self respect and I think we got it."

The Bucks will be out to keep that respect and win their second in a row at home game tonight.

Game time 8:30 p.m. in the Memorial Arena.

Par A Joke In Phoenix

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Par became a joke in the first round of the $125,000 Phoenix open golf tournament.

Asked his score Thursday, Frank Beire said: "Par, 66."

It wasn't entirely true but Arnold Palmer shot a 68, as did George Knudson of Toronto, and was not happy. Billy Casper had a 67 and was three strokes off the pace. And Dave Hill was wondering why they were using the lady's tees. He was one of 13 at 65.

Bob Lunn, Fred Marti and Don Massengale, matched 66, seven under the listed par of 71, and led the most massive assault on par in over two years on the pro golf tour.

A combination of near perfect playing conditions, warm sunny weather without a hint of wind, greens that held and a short, flat course led to some almost incredible scoring.

In all, 88 players in the field of 150 broke par on the Arizona Country club course.

In addition to Hill the others at 66 were George Archer, Miller Barber, Bruce Crampton, Tom Weiskopf, Howie Johnson, Homero Blancas, Paul Harney, Joe Carr, Dick Crawford, Jerry McGee, Rod Curl and Bill Garrett.

There were 14 more at 66 and 18 at 67. U.S. Open champ Tony Jacklin had a 68.

Kelowna Pee wee Reps Ready To Narrow Gap In Standings

Kelowna Pee wee Reps, in second place in the Okanagan Mainline Pee wee Hockey League, play host to league-leading Vernon Sunday at 8:30 p.m.

A win for the Kelowna squad is a must Sunday if they hope to take over the leadership.

In their two previous regular season games, Vernon defeated Kelowna 6-1 in Vernon, and came back two weeks ago to tie Kelowna 4-4, after being down 4-1 going into the final period. In an exhibition game in early December, Kelowna downed the Vernon Reps 7-2.

"This should be a preview to the Valley playoff final," predicted veteran coach Tony Bigler Thursday.

"And if the two teams play the way they did in their last meeting, it should be another exciting, hard-fought battle."

Coach of the Vernon club is Odie Lowe, also the mentor of the Junior A Essos who visit Kelowna tonight to take on the Kelowna Buckaroos.

In AA action, Kelowna Owls visit Penticton to take on the Lakers, while the Owlettes also make the trip to meet the Lakettes. In the other game, Oliver Hornets visit Rutland to meet the Voodoos.

The annual Grade 8 tournament is slated for Rutland.

Good Name Demolished

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — A year ago, Jean-Pierre Beltoise left Argentina a local hero, winner of the 1970 Argentine sports auto race.

He leaves today, charged with negligent homicide, under bond of $15,000 and object of local abuse from press and fans alike.

The difference was a fatal accident in the 1971 race that killed Italian driver Ignazio Giunti. Beltoise was the key factor in the accident.

A local judge Thursday ruled that evidence to date showed that Beltoise was guilty of negligent homicide and ordered the 33-year-old Frenchman arrested, then released on bond.

Beltoise will be allowed to leave for 60 days but will have to return at the end of that period to again face the courts for a final determination in the case. Beltoise, who plans to leave for France today, still could be found innocent.

STARTED PUSHING

Beltoise, driving for the Matra team, race out of fuel on the 38th lap of the Argentine 1,000-kilometre sports auto race Jan. 10. He got out and began pushing his Matra toward the pits.

A number of cars went safely around the Matra, which Beltoise was pushing at some considerable strain in a cross-course path in the centre of the track.

But when Giunti rounded a hairpin curve he smashed into the stalled car from behind. The Ferrari exploded in flames and the popular young Italian driver was trapped inside the burning car in front of the thousands of fans.

Two Late Goals Help Knights

AMARILLO, Tex. (CP-AP)—Omaha's Knights scored two goals in the final minute and 30 seconds Thursday night to pull into a 5-5 tie with Amarillo Wranglers in a Central Hockey League game.

Trailing 5-3, Morris Stefanit scored on a power play at 18:31 to pull the Knights within one and then Andre Dupont scored with just one second remaining to give them the tie.

Crash, Crumble Develop Quickly

WINNIPEG (CP) — Five months training isn't usually enough time to develop a pair of Canadian figure skating champions, but two Toronto youngsters with the unlikely nicknames of Crash and Crumble proved Thursday it can be done.

Barbara Berezowski, 16, and David Porter, 21, captured the junior dance gold medal with a steady performance in both compulsory figures and free skating.

It was one of three championships decided Thursday, the third day of competition of the Canadian figure skating championships. Ontario athletes continued to dominate the events, winning two more gold medals.

Before the Toronto pair won the junior dance event, John Rait and Ginnie Grieco of Toronto won the novice dance championship.

Karel Latham of Vancouver was the only non-Ontario athlete to be crowned and it took a brilliant free-skating exhibition to give the 17-year-old the junior ladies gold medal.

"We've only been together for five months," Porter, nicknamed Crash, said of the junior dance team. "Our press teamed us up."

"The secret to success," he says, "is to make every moment on the ice count. Leave all your troubles at home when you go to skate."

PRAISED BY PARTNER

Porter made every moment count during the free skating and received the praise of his partner for possibly saving the victory.

"He saved me," Miss Berezowski, nicknamed Crumble, said. "I don't know what happened but all of a sudden I was under him."

"He held me up and kept me from falling on my face."

Having the right professionals has also helped the pair. Their coaches, Marg and Bruce Hyland, also teach the novice pairs winners, Bernard and Marie Souche of Toronto, and one of the top senior pairs here, Mary Petrie and John Hubbell of Toronto.

Miss Latham, the B.C. senior champion, found the Winnipeg Arena ice to her liking and took advantage of it to overcome a seven-point deficit to defeat Julie Black of Point Edward, Ont.

Rait and Miss Grieco withstood a tremendous free-skating challenge from Greg Ladret and Debra Robertson of Vancouver in the novice dance.

Karen Magnusson, 18, defending senior ladies champion, and Stan Holonek of Toronto in the junior men's event, took commanding leads after compulsory figures.

The final three senior ladies figures will be skated this morning followed by the first three senior men's figures. The senior dance compulsory section and the junior men's free skating is scheduled for the evening.

REMEMBER WHEN . . .

Tommy Gorman, then manager of the New York Americans, presented "Rainy Drinkwater" to the National Hockey League 45 years ago today—in 1926—passing him off as an Indian star from the Caughnawaga reserve. The gag didn't work on the ice, however, and French-Canadian Rene Bolduc was later dropped from the team.

Gilbert Was Late Again But Rangers Don't Care

By IAN MACLAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It's getting to be a habit with Rod Gilbert.

For the second time in as many nights, Gilbert's late-game heroics pulled New York Rangers into a National Hockey League tie.

His two third period goals Thursday night, the second with fewer than three minutes remaining, enabled the Rangers to tie the lowly Buffalo Sabres 5-5 in Buffalo.

The previous night, at home, he turned boos to cheers with two late goals, the second with 18 seconds left in the game, to give New York a 3-3 tie with Philadelphia Flyers.

In other games Thursday night, the Flyers blew a 4-1 lead and settled for a 5-3 tie with Montreal Canadiens, Minnesota North Stars won their first game at home since Christmas night, 5-3 over St. Louis Blues, Chicago Black Hawks blanked Detroit Red Wings 2-0 and Los Angeles Kings tripped Pittsburgh Penguins 4-2.

LEADS AT OAKLAND

In tonight's only game, Toronto Maple Leafs are at Oakland against California Seals.

Gilbert's two goals against the Sabres gave him 16 for the season and equalled his total output for the 1969-70 schedule.

The tie marked the longest winless streak of the season for the Rangers—two losses followed by the two ties. They have been pushing Boston Bruins for top place in the NHL's East Division all year and the tie moved them to within a point of Boston.

The Bruins, however, have played two fewer games for their 67 points.

"We're falling down in certain areas like penalty killing," said Emile Francis, Rangers general manager-coach. "We've now blown two three-goal leads and one two-goal lead."

"We'll have to make some adjustments. But I'm not about to jump off the bridge. It's a long, long season and I see no reason to panic."

SABRES REBOUND

New York held a 3-1 lead midway in the game but the Sabres rebounded and took a 4-3 lead early in the final 20 minutes on goals by Steve Atkinson, Phil Goyette and rookie Gilbert Perreault's second of the game and 19th of the season.

ROD GILBERT
... saves N.Y.

Gilbert tallied his first at 8:00 of the period and finished it up at 17:24 after Doug Barrie had again given Buffalo the lead.

Henri Richard's sixth goal of the season ended a 16-game personal scoring drought to climax Montreal's four-goal rally in the third period.

The Flyers, who spotted Montreal a 1-0 first-period lead, rapped in four of their own, including goals by Jean-Guy Gendron, Bill Lesak and Jimmy Johnson in a span of one minute, 19 seconds.

After Montreal's Jean Beliveau and Bobby Clarke of the Flyers exchanged early goals, the Canadiens went on their own scoring binge with the Mahovlich brothers, Frank and Peter, and Richard tallying in a period of one minute, 47 seconds.

WIN IS 1971 FIRST

Danny Grant and Jean-Paul Parise banked shots in off goalie Glenn Hall's padding to send the North Stars waddling to their first win of 1971 at home.

Grant's 22nd of the year, a stunner from the blue line, glanced off Hall's glove and pad to make the score 3-2 in the second period and Parise blasted a 30-footer off the goalie's pads at 3:25 of the final period for the winner.

Grant was being shadowed closely by Blues' Jim Roberts all night and the goal was the only shot he had.

"I shot it," said Grant, "and it started rolling."

"Hall went down to catch it in his chest but it dropped about a foot. It was one of those things."

"It was my only shot on goal. Roberts was on me all night."

Asked how he managed the one shot, Grant replied: "He went for our defenceman Tom Reid along the boards and Reid just passed it to me at the blue line."

ESPOSITO STOPS 30

Tony Esposito, who played brilliantly in his last start, a 2-0 victory for the West Division all-stars over the East Tuesday night, continued his solid performance against the Wings while turning aside 30 shots for his fourth shutout of the season.

Rookie Dan Maloney's ninth goal of the year at the 14-minute mark of the opening period was all the offence he needed with added insurance coming from Bobby Hull in the second.

Bob Berry's two goals and rookie Al McDonough's first NHL goal since being called up from the Kings' American League farm club at Springfield, Mass., sparked the Kings.

In other league developments Thursday, Boston Bruins recalled Reg Lench, 21, from their farm team at Oklahoma City in the Central League, to replace injured John McKenzie.

McKenzie suffered a shoulder separation at Boston Sunday night against Toronto Maple Leafs.

It's a Living

NEW YORK (AP) — Down-town, uptown and across a couple of continents, Ben Bonus works at his special theatrical imperative.

"It's not particularly for a living, but because the people need it," he says. "I'm doing my best to keep a valuable tradition alive."

Bonus is a stocky, grizzled producer-singer-director-actor of Yiddish dramatics, one of the few remaining quality craftsmen in that once-flourishing entertainment zone. At 49, he sternly pooh-poohs the suggestion that such folk art must join the dodo in extinction.

Bonus offers statistical support. In New York City $40,000 a week was grossed recently on a spate of Yiddish shows, and capacity audiences attend his perennial visitations to 70 U.S. cities. Latin-American trips testify further to widespread interest in colloquial wares.

"Yiddish is Yiddish everywhere," he says.

Bonus admits that during the last few years there has been a disastrous apparently contradictory shrinkage of sustained professional activity on New York's Lower East Side, the former shrine of idiomatic stagecraft.

"We were driven off Second Avenue because landlords got greedy and wanted higher rent than we could pay." One playhouse became that citadel of rock culture, Fillmore East. Others were booked for off-Broadway shows that scaled box offices at higher rates.

"Another thing, the Yiddish theatre didn't look ahead. Young people should have been coming into it to perform, but the elders in the profession wouldn't let them in. Years ago they threw Danny Kaye out, they didn't want competition. And the plays they did—soap opera is art in comparison, in my opinion."

The material worth keeping is "that marvelously rich literature of folk humor and ideals, some of it hundreds of years old, so adaptable to the stage."

As part of his campaign to keep group theatre tradition alive "with decency, so we shouldn't be ashamed," Bonus brought his company to Broadway this season with Light, Lively and Yiddish, a variety showcase of songs and narrative which already has been invited to play next spring in Israel, a performing area Bonus has somehow previously missed.

Looking ahead, Bonus talks of an annual 20-week Broadway stand with a dramatic repertoire. "We have so much original material and it should be shown."

"Eventually some might be done in translation. I've got nothing against English, but the language is such an important part of such work that doing it in a different tongue poses difficulties. Subtleties, poets beauty get lost, a certain flavor that's untranslatable."

"Like opera. People sit for hours listening to opera in Italian or Russian without understanding a single word. Why? Because the sheer beauty comes through anyhow. It is the same with Yiddish theatre."

ARTHUR RUBINSTEIN

... not pretty enough

Rubenstein Fussy About His Looks

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Pianist Artur Rubinstein was about to have his picture taken.

"I'm not pretty enough—let me look at myself," said Rubinstein as he bounced off a couch.

He went to a mirror and studied himself carefully for several seconds.

"Ah," he said, waving a hand and smiling, "unfortunately I always look the same."

The 83-year-old pianist was here for a concert, one of 46 on his current tour.

Variety Shows In Danger Zone

NEW YORK (AP) — Ed Sullivan and his producer, Bob Precht, sat eating lunch—Ed's breakfast, to be precise—and counting the number of variety programs on network television.

When the total reached 16, Sullivan took a final bite of lamb chop, and said: "That's a lot of variety."

"Getting the talent is the hard part—lining up exciting and interesting performers," he went on. "Once all you needed was to put a Tony Bennett on the show. . . . But now they've seen everything and they know everybody. And the same people keep coming up all over."

It is a common complaint. There's a lot of variety on television, and there are signs that the public, with its instinct to turn away when it has had enough, is saturated. While The Flip Wilson Show—more comedy than variety—is undoubtedly the one real hit of the new season, The Tim Conway Show and The Don Knotts Show never got off the ground; The Tom Jones Show has been converted into a sometime thing; and The Johnny Cash Show is barely holding its own. And The Ed Sullivan Show, the granddaddy of them all, seems stuck in a danger zone of the Nielsen ratings.

Sullivan is in his 23rd television season as host of a show that started, quite simply, as old-fashioned vaudeville played mostly in front of a curtain. As the seasons moved on, the production values became more sophisticated, the sets and surroundings were elaborate, but it was still a program that presented a series of acts, from jugglers and animals to snippets from Broadway hits and opera stars belting out arias.

Film Raps S. Africa

LONDON (AP) — A film made secretly in South Africa and shown Monday night on British television contends starvation is rampant in black resettlement areas established by the white South African government.

Dr. Donald McKenzie, for three years medical superintendent at a hospital on one of the black resettlement reserves, was quoted as saying he saw so much starvation "I hadn't realized starvation in this area was officially denied."

"It was only later when I got into trouble for signing death certificates for starvation that it was brought to my notice it didn't officially exist."

McKenzie, who left the hospital a year ago, was said to have written in his annual report that the "suffering witnessed in and around the hospital can only be described as a disgrace to the country."

Granada Television, which produced the film, said its camera team travelled 5,000 miles in South Africa—much of the time illegally—under cover of the recent visit there by Dr. Michael Ramsey, Archbishop of Canterbury. Granada said the archbishop was in no way connected with the filming.

The film included pictures of overcrowded hospitals and children said to be suffering from starvation and malnutrition.

The film claimed four million blacks were being moved as a result of the resettlement policy and called it "one of the biggest mass deportations of the 20th century."

Newmans Lead Box Office Race

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Paul Newman and his wife, Joanne Woodward, were the movies' top box office draws last year a poll by Box Office, a film trade publication, says.

Results of the voting by exhibitors, consumer film groups, newspaper, radio and television reporters were announced Wednesday.

Miss Woodward was named the top actress in the same poll last year. Newman regained the No. 1 position after being replaced the year before by John Wayne, who finished second this time.

WILL STAR

Carol Burnett and George Kennedy will star in a Hollywood stage production of Neil Simon's Plaza Suite.

People Find It Hard To Take That Mr. Potts Has No Racket

TORONTO (CP) — What's your racket, Mr. Potts?

J. Lyman Potts was asked the question many times when he started out nine years ago to promote Canadian Talent Library, a non-profit organization initiated and principally financed by Standard Broadcasting Corp., which owns radio stations CFRB in Toronto and CJAD in Montreal.

As president of Standard Broadcast Productions Ltd., an SBC subsidiary, Mr. Potts is responsible for the day-to-day operations of the innovative CTL, which counts 205 radio stations in Canada as subscribers to its services.

But when he began selling the idea of recording local unknowns he was faced with an entrenched Canadian attitude that anything Canadian, particularly in the arts, must be second rate.

"People just found it difficult to believe that someone in broadcasting would want to hire Canadian musicians to make recordings," Mr. Potts says recalling those early promotional years. "But we just wanted to do for Canadians what the Americans had been doing for their artists since the year dot, that is to give performers an opportunity to perform."

Now, Mr. Potts views the Toronto-based CTL as a major boost to stations which, as of Monday, must fill their prime-time musical programming with at least 30 per cent Canadian talent.

(This 30 per cent Canadian content ruling is laid down by the Canadian Radio-Television Commission, regulatory body of the Canadian broadcasting industry, and applies only to AM stations.)

Today, the CTL has a library of 139 albums with 1,676 selections, 370 of which are Canadian compositions. So far, it has spent close to $1 million employing and promoting Canadian talent and distributes records to its radio station subscribers across the country for a nominal fee that ranges from $25 to $125 a month. These fees account for about a third of the CTL budget.

"By paying a fee, the stations help us make more records, which in turn, helps us develop more Canadian talent," says Mr. Potts. All the money received in fees is used to produce more records, many of which reach the public through commercial distributors.

Mal Thompson, manager of CTL's music services, says that since the new regulations were announced there "has been a steady procession of unknowns coming in for interviews and with their own tapes for us to hear."

Mr. Potts, who got his start in radio in Regina in the 1930s, recalls that no Canadian records were sold or heard until the late 1950s, except for a few by artists such as band leader Mart Kenny or Will Carter.

"But if you can write a song about St. Louis, you can write one about Halifax," he says.

The CTL cut its first album July 27, 1962, two records of 24 selections of music conducted by Johnny Burt of Toronto. In the next two months, 10 more records were made, which became the nucleus of the library.

Variety

This season, however, is different. Faced with tough competition for star turns and personalities and slotted in a Sunday night position on CBS as the first of three solid hours of variety, and against a popular police-action show, the good old Ed Sullivan Show has been undergoing radical cosmetic surgery. For the first half of the season, each program has been tied to a theme—an ice show, a visit to a state fair, a salute to the United Nations, a tribute to Richard Rogers, a book musical.

"Actually Ed originated the idea of putting on special programs within the weekly series," Precht said. "He has done it occasionally over the years—the Moseyev Ballet, the Irving Berlin tribute, the end-of-the-60s show. Now we think about the special as a practical pattern, particularly when there is an over abundance of straight variety around."

Sullivan, at 68, is still as competitive as a cub reporter—he still thinks of himself as a newspaper man and still has a daily newspaper column. He has stepped up the hunt for new talent and fresh faces.

"We've got people all over looking for us," he said. "We went to Japan on a hunt; we go to Vegas. We try to find them on Broadway—we put Melba Moore on TV for the first time."

However, in terms of ratings, the show has been slipping steadily since the beginning of the season. In the old days, it was a rare week when Sullivan was out of the top 10.

Pink Floyd Interview Simple If...

Canadian Press Staff Writer
The ground rules for the Pink Floyd interview were simple enough:

Bass guitarist-composer Roger Waters and drummer Nick Mason didn't want to talk about how the ethereal English rock group got its name or how they would describe their music.

Sitting in the cab of a U-haul truck carrying $14,000 worth of sound equipment, it was obvious from the pained expressions on their faces that they had been asked those questions a hundred times before.

Pink Floyd could score a Ray Bradbury science fiction novel, tales of terror by Edgar Allan Poe or the book of Genesis; lead guitarist Dave Gilmour, Waters, Mason and organist Richard Wright were producing 2001 sounds before Space Odyssey became a commercial trip.

The U m m a g u m m a and Atom Heart Mother albums yielded some of the most inspired compositions in the amorphous rock idiom in the last five years.

Forgotten are the days of their Top of the Pops single, See Emily Play, when they could clear an English ballroom faster than any other group in the country.

'WE WERE TERRIBLE'

"Five minutes into the first number, the audience would start throwing bottles, disappear during the second and leave us facing a knot of toughs, whistling and shouting as we started the third," recalled Mason.

"We were terrible. We had some ideas, but no technical ability."

"It had a big influence on our relationship with the audience. We figure the ones who don't throw anything are the good ones."

The good ones dig their intellectual approach and the quadrasonic speaker system which throws the sound around a concert hall and uses pre-recorded audio effects of a baby's cry, whistles, sirens and a buzzing fly.

The others complain about the score for the movie, More. So do Waters and Mason.

"We were brought down by the whole film," said Mason.

"The whole thing was done in a week for $10,000, which is a small budget, and we paid for our own studio time."

"We didn't have the material for one song when we started," said Waters.

"Dave, Nick and Richard put down the backing track in the studio, while I was writing the first verse in the corner."

"They would come in and say: 'What's this word?' 'That's skylight.' 'Oh, right.' And I'd get on with the next one."

ACTORS WERE STIFF
More was filmed in English by a French director and when the stiff European actors tried to contend with hip language, it came out: "No. Sweat. Man."

The sound-track album sold more than 50,000 copies in France alone and led to a phone call from Italian director Michelangelo Antonioni for his look at America, Zabriskie Point.

Originally, Pink Floyd was to do the entire score; they ended up with not much more than a share of the credits.

The initial excitement soon wore off as Antonioni tightened his grip on all facets of the film, including the music.

"He couldn't accept our work," said Mason.

"I was his first and our second. After seeing the love scene about 15 times a night for a week, we were highly depressed and just tried to please him."

Hours of work for the crucial seven-minute scene, where music, mood and image blended on the screen, were discarded.

To make things worse, the group had to share a studio with an MGM executive who wanted the country-rock Youngbloods to do the whole sound track.

"A lot of the things we do," sighed Mason, "we're drawn into by others."

Early next year the group will start work on a ballet for Rudolph Nureyev and 60 dancers—this time with more artistic control.

'Cannonball'
On Drug Charge

TORONTO (CP) — Julian (Cannonball) Adderley, the American jazz saxophonist, was sentenced to a $500 fine or 30 days in jail Wednesday for possession of marijuana and hashish.

Adderley, 42, was charged Nov. 9 as he was checked through customs at Toronto International Airport after a flight from Chicago.

The court was told customs officials found three marijuana cigarettes, a box and envelope containing a small quantity of marijuana, a small vial of hashish and two brass pipes with traces of hashish in them.

Airport Flies In

The most awaited motion picture in more than a decade, Universal's gripping drama, Ross Hunter's production of Airport, comes Jan. 27 to the Paramount Theatre. It has an all-star cast headed by Burt Lancaster, Dean Martin, Jean Seberg and Jacqueline Bisset. The other stars are George Kennedy, Helen Hayes, Van Heflin, Maureen Stapleton, Barry Nelson, Lloyd Nolan, Dana Wynter and Barbara Hale.

Based on the book by Arthur Hailey that was on the best-seller list for 65 weeks and sold more than 4,000,000 copies in its paperback version, Airport has been brought to the screen by producer Hunter and Academy Award winner George Seaton who wrote the screenplay and directed.

Airport is a powerful suspense drama that takes place at night during a seven-hour period while an international airport in the midwest is plagued by a crippling blizzard, a mired airplane that blocks a vital runway and a second jetliner trying to limp back home after surviving a mid-air bomb blast.

Maria Callas
Seeks Divorce

BRESCIA, Italy (AP) — Maria Callas and her estranged husband, Viovan Battista Meneghini, appeared Friday in a divorce hearing filed by the opera singer.

Judge Alfonso Mascolo-Vitale, president of the local tribunal, said he will issue a decision March 1.

The two, married 20 years ago, were separated in 1959. Miss Callas, 46, has been a long-time friend of 64-year-old Greek shipping magnate Aris-

Movie Merger
Rumor Denied

NEW YORK (AP) — Darryl F. Zanuck, chairman of the board of 20th Century Fox, denied Friday that his company and MGM are discussing merger possibilities.

President James T. Aubrey of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer announced Thursday that the two troubled film companies have begun discussions with a view to combination of the Hollywood giants.

HARRY-HARVEY
HAD NAME FOR IT

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — For 28 years, Harry thought his name was Harvey.

But this week he learned the truth.

"Boy, was I ever shocked," said Harvey—or Harry—Labban.

He and Mrs. Labban were digging through old papers when they discovered the error on his handwritten birth certificate.

Harry called his mother.

"She said the nurse who filled in the birth certificate must have just made a mistake," he said. "She intended to name me Harvey."

A quick call to his lawyer showed he has no legal complications.

Just to make sure, however, Labban will go to court and change his birth registration from Harry to Harvey.

Then, fortunately, he will not have to change the name of his son, Harvey Labban Jr.

JULIE'S A JEWEL

This is Julie Ege, a Norwegian cutie whose British movie studio hopes will be the sex symbol of the 1970s.

She's shown at a London recording studio recently. At 25, and twice divorced, Julie has been a farmer's wife, a dentist's wife, a $4.80-a-week maid and a Miss Norway.

Champion Skier To Be A Star

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jean Claude Killy, the champion skier, will star in a Hollywood-financed romantic adventure movie.

John Calley, production chief of Warner Brothers, announced Monday the French athlete will play the lead in Schuss, produced by Edward Rissien and directed by George Englund.

He won three gold medals in the 1968 Olympic Winter Games.

Love Story A Snowflake

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One snowflake may not be a winter make, nor one film a trend... unless, perhaps, its Love Story. Its critics' reviews and early box-office returns suggest a start of the pendulum's swing back to romanticism from blatant sex on the screen.

Or as Jack Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, put it recently in a speech to a Sacramento, Calif., business group:

"My judgment is the sexploitation film, mostly imported from abroad or made cheaply and quickly in this country is fading... What I think will become the majority of seriously made films in this country is the kind of movie I would call romantic or entertaining."

Critic Kathleen Carroll wrote in the New York Daily News that "Love Story should bring joy to millions of moviegoers sickened by the overdose of sex and drugs in the movies."

"Unless we are all mad," Charles Champlin wrote in the Los Angeles Times; it "will be an enormous success and most certainly the most influential movie of the year, heralding more to come."

In an era of sexual licence and x-rated films, Time magazine's review said, "the counter-revolution had to happen."

Earlier viewers seemed to approve. Paramount Studio says the film broke house box-office records in the first four days of its world premiere booking at two New York theatres.

Famous Hollywood Dynasties Finding It Hard To Survive

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The departure of Richard Zanuck as president of 20th Century-Fox marked the apparent end of the most notable dynasty in the film industry today.

It also brought further erosion of family control of the movie business, which once was the most important factor in the film hierarchy.

"There's nothing wrong with nepotism—as long as you keep it in the family," Samuel Goldwyn was alleged to have once said.

Goldwyn knew. He came into the film business because his first wife was the sister of Jesse Lasky, a vaudevillian who started making flickers.

Many another pioneers entered film-making because of relatives. Harry Cohn was brought into Universal because his brother Jack worked there. Later the brothers formed Columbia, which Robert Benchley termed "the pine tree studio" "because it has so many Cohns."

SON-BECAME HEAD

Carl Laemmle, founder of Universal, filled the company with relatives and established his son Junior as production head.

MGM employed a host of persons who bore the names of Loew, Schenck or Mayer or were related to those founders of the company. Late in MGM's history, a production unit composed of company scions was formed.

Studio wags referred to the unit as "sons of the pioneers."

Louis B. Mayer was frustrated in his hopes to establish a dynasty at MGM. He had no sons. His two daughters married David O. Selznick and William Goetz, both of whom became heads of studios. But not MGM. They declined to work for their father-in-law.

WARNERS FADE

The Warner brothers offered a formidable family for control of their company, yet no Warner remains in control today. Jack L. Warner, the surviving brother, because estranged from his own son. For a time Warner established his son-in-law, William Orr, as production head. But that didn't work, and Warner later sold his interest in the company.

Theatre Canada Applicants Whittled Down To 22 Winners

OTTAWA (CP) — Names of successful applicants for Theatre Canada '71, the non-competitive replacement for the Dominion Drama Festival finals, were released here today.

Twenty-two theatre groups were chosen from the more than 70 applicants to take part in the six-day program beginning May 17 at the National Arts Centre.

Mrs. Jeanne Sabourin, chairman of the selection committee, said at a news conference that the final selections were chosen as a cross-country representation of all the types of theatre being performed in Canada today.

Groups will be coming from as far away as Victoria, B.C. and Labrador City, Nfld.

Fifteen of the 22 plays are by Canadian authors. The variety of content includes musicals, mimes, Yiddish folklore, children's dramas and even a puppet show.

PLAYS NOT JUDGED

Because the plays are non-competitive, there will be no judges but group discussions will be held after each performance.

Those participating in Theatre Canada '71 are: Carol Players,

Peachland Set For Centennial

PEACHLAND (Special)—Centennial celebrations were the main item discussed at the Tuesday meeting of the Peachland Centennial Committee. Committee chairman Ted Best presided and members of Peachland Teen Town sat in on the meeting.

Teen Town Mayor Ken Wayne agreed that Teen Town would take over the selling of small Centennial flags in the community. A report was given on the youth club's sale of Centennial calendars. These had been sold very quickly and only a few are still available. No report was available on the sale of Centennial books which are being looked after by the Peachland Riding Club.

Other material available for sale was studied and it was decided to get a small number of Centennial cook books, Mrs. J. R. Davies and Mrs. E. J. Tydd will make these available through the women's organizations in the community.

EVENTS STUDIED

A number of the Centennial calendar of events were studied and it was found no listing of Peachland celebrations, which are to be held May 23 to May 24, has been published, though the information was made available to Victoria. This matter will be looked into by the secretary.

It was decided to contact all local organizations to form sub-committees which can take over separate parts of the Centennial celebrations. Don Wilson agreed to contact the Newcomers group to ask if they will form a women's activity group as part of the Centennial committee.

Mrs. C. C. Whinton, who did an excellent job for the committee on the pioneer medallions applications, will be asked to head an invitation and publicity committee. Peter Spackman was the committee's unanimous selection to head an entertainment committee.

Branch 69 Royal Canadian Legion will be asked to arrange a parade and non-denominational church service on May 23, as their part in the celebrations. The Peachland and District Chamber of Commerce, it was felt, should be asked to form a sub-committee to look after decoration throughout the town.

The ladies' and men's curling clubs will again put on the pancake supper May 24.

EXHIBITION

The community fall fair committee will be invited to arrange a pioneer exhibition in the community hall Monday.

John Pratt was officially appointed parade committee chairman, and all businesses and organizations are urged to make early arrangements for entries.

It was tentatively decided the parade would start off the celebrations at 1 p.m. May 22.

The Peachland Lions Club will be asked to supply carnival booths and concessions on Monday afternoon with Teen Town administering children's races the same day.

Nixon's No Became Yes In Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP)—The dispatch of American helicopters to aid the Saigon offensive in Cambodia comes 6½ months after President Nixon said "no U.S. air or logistics support" would be used to aid South Vietnamese fighting in Cambodia.

Now, U.S. helicopters operating for the first time from 7th Fleet ships off the Cambodian coast have been providing fire-support and logistics support, ferrying supplies and aiding in communications—for the Cambodian-South Vietnamese force battling to reopen Phnom Penh's key highway to the sea.

In news briefings this week, Jerry Friedheim, the defence department's deputy assistant secretary for public affairs, described these efforts as "air combat and logistic activities" and said they represent no change in administration policy.

Friedheim was asked in an interview how the American effort now under way falls within Nixon's June 30 statement that no air or logistics support would be provided the South Vietnamese in Cambodia.

Friedheim replied it is not up to him to interpret the president.

Nixon, in a television address baring U.S. ground personnel and military advisers from Cambodia, said:

"We will conduct—with the approval of the Cambodian government—air interdiction missions against the enemy efforts to move supplies and personnel through Cambodia to the South Vietnamese and re-establish their base areas relevant to the war in South Vietnam."

The South Vietnamese, Nixon said, would remain ready to block re-establishment of the Viet Cong's border sanctuaries cleaned out in May and June by U.S. and South Vietnamese troops.

Rutland Woman Buried Saturday

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday from Rutland United Church for Mrs. Nettie Hulskamp, 93, of Rutland, who died Wednesday.

She is survived by her husband Tony, two daughters, Mrs. Polly Hutchinson and Mrs. J. (Kathleen) Posnikoff, five grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Rev. F. A. Lewis will officiate.

Arrangements through the Memorial Society of B.C. and First Memorial Services Ltd.

FRIENDLY SPOT

The name North Dakota comes from a Sioux Indian word meaning "alliance with friends."

SPARTAN APPLES

Calcium Treatment Helps

The future of the Spartan apple as a marketable variety was questioned this week although a major breakthrough in researching its problems was announced.

Dr. Jack Mason of the federal agricultural research station at Summerland said "it has been proved conclusively low calcium counts in the apple can cause a breakdown of the variety in storage."

He said the latest tests were made as a result of six years of research and showed that seven out of 12 plots tested broke down under storage. But there was no breakdown on those apples receiving calcium treatment in the orchard.

He listed this treatment as about 230 parts per million.

The extent of the problem was reviewed by chairman John Bullock of the apple committee who said a total of 3,707 acres of Spartans have now been planted and by 1975 these trees will be producing a total of a million and a half boxes.

He said the only recommendation he could make was that growers "work over" (use grafting techniques) any Spartan trees under three years old.

General Manager Ian Greenwood of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. outlined an intensive marketing program for the Spartan variety at a cost he estimated at $50,000.

Launched last November, Mr. Greenwood said, however, that in spite of tremendous co-operation, consumer reaction was disappointing.

"Despite all the newspaper, TV and radio effort, co-operation from wholesalers, and others, there is no real noticeable increase in the movement of Spartans."

INDIAN COUNCIL

CHILLIWACK, B.C. (CP) — Representatives of 1,600 Indians in the Lower Fraser Valley area of British Columbia have formed a regional government-type council that represents 21 different bands. It is hoped the council will be able to take over complete administration of major Indian problems in the area from the department of Indian affairs within two years.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

QUEENIE

Why in the world were you speeding? The Police-man's Ball is three weeks away—$3.50 per ticket, four for twelve dollars...

YOUR HOROSCOPE

For travel—Mar. 25, Apr. 3, Apr. 16—A strange encounter stimulates you.

Mar. 21 to Apr. 20 (Aries)—A "routine" trip winds up with unconventional companions.

Apr. 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—Given a suitable incentive, your family will prove most cooperative.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—A misunderstanding with a friend could upset. Have a straight talk.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—News about a recent investment will please, give a lift.

July 24 to Aug. 23 (Leo)—Associates somewhat uncooperative now. Counteract with good humor.

Aug. 24 to Sept. 23 (Virgo)—A favorable day for home and family interests; for planning renovations.

Sept. 24 to Oct. 23 (Libra)—Use care in correspondence. Don't mail without re-reading.

Oct. 24 to Nov. 22 (Scorpio)—

Early morning hunches good. Also, follow up "inside information."

Nov. 23 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius)—A clash of temperaments could cause needless friction.

Dec. 22 to Jan. 20 (Capricorn)—A complete change in your plans will turn out most fortunately.

Jan. 21 to Feb. 19 (Aquarius)—A self-confident attitude will help get what you want today.

Feb. 20 to Mar. 20 (Pisces)—Be purposefully single-minded. Associates may want to dodge issues.

Astrologues—Mercury influences, restrictive for the last two days, are now in more generous configuration; encourage written matters of any kind, are particularly favorable to advertising and promotion copywriters, journalists, editors and to all those engaged in literary pursuits. Those in other fields of communication are also star-blessed. Aviation interests and travel by air favored, too.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Cold Feet Afflict Older Person

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am an old lady, 84, and have cold feet all the time. I take hot bricks to bed. I soak my feet in hot water, but no matter what I pile on my feet when I go to bed, I still have to have a hot brick. In daytime I light the oven and warm my feet in it every so often.

I am active and have a small garden and take care of the lawn, but I all over from arthritis. Is there anything I can do to help my feet? They make me miserable.—R.W.

An uncomfortable, annoying problem, and not easy to treat, but I will offer what help I can. At your age you have to accept that you have a high degree of hardening of the arteries, so that circulation in the feet is not the best. Hence the chronic coldness. Vasoconstrictors can contribute to this problem, so if you wear circular garters—don't.

As to applying heat to your feet, be careful! The hot bricks and the oven both can get hot enough to cause blistering or even burning. With impaired circulation, first of all you may not feel the heat quickly enough, unless you are watchful. Second, if the skin is blistered or burned, healing will be slow because of slow circulation. So I repeat: be careful.

I'm glad that, in spite of your arthritis, you remain active; whatever activity you can manage is extremely important in maintaining circulation.

Wearing properly-fitting wool socks may help.

Medically, vasodilators—medications to dilate the small blood vessels of the legs and feet—may help, and if you haven't done so already, discuss this with your doctor and give one of these preparations a trial.

Occasionally hormones, such as thyroid or estrogen, may be considered, but the dosage for these would have to be determined by your physician.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have post-nasal drip which is very annoying, and I take two aspirins a day for relief. Is this harmful to my health? If so, what else can I take?—M.J.

If you aren't hypersensitive to aspirin, I don't see how the aspirin can harm you—but it won't do a thing to correct the drip, which usually can be successfully corrected if you go about it the right way. Allergy, nasal obstruction, or chronic infection must be considered.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Five hours after handing hundreds of 19th century bronze and copper coins, both my father and I had skin eruptions similar to mosquito bites. Others in the family who did not handle the coins had no eruptions, and there weren't any mosquitoes around anyway. Is there any possible connection between the coins and the "bites"?—S.J.B.

There could be. A contact dermatitis (allergy) from various metals is a not-uncommon phenomenon, and your eruptions could be such a sensitivity after hours of handling the coins. Or, possibly, some chemical or other could have been used to clean the coins, I suppose, and that might be the answer.

Note to Mrs. D. H.: Your question about plugged Eustachian tubes is too complicated to offer you any way to diagnose your own trouble. An ear specialist can do it readily, though.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

TEST YOUR PLAY

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Four Hearts and North leads the king of spades. How would you play the hand?

♠ 10 5
♥ A K J 9 8 5 2
♦ A K 7

♠ A 9 2
♥ 8 4 3
♦ 8 5 4
♣ K Q 7 2

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Four Spades. North leads the ten of clubs and you lose the jack to the queen. South returns the queen of hearts. How would you play the hand?

♠ A Q 10 9 7 5 2
♥ 8 6 3

♠ J 8 3
♥ A K 7
♦ Q 9 6
♣ K J 5 4

1. Win the spade with the ace, lead a trump and, assuming that South follows low, finesse the jack! This may look like a crazy finesse, but it is the only way of assuring the contract.

If the jack wins, you have ten cold tricks, and if the jack loses, you also have ten cold tricks! Thus, if North takes the jack with the queen, cashes a spade and continues with a spade, you ruff and draw the only trump that is outstanding. You then lead a club to the queen, and, let's say, lose it to South's ace. This is no great hardship, for, when he returns a diamond, you win with the king, cross to dummy's six of hearts, and discard the seven of diamonds on the king of clubs to make the contract.

The purpose of the trump finesse is to guard against South's having all three missing trumps. If that proved to be the case and you failed to finesse, you would go down against proper defense. The finesse is a safety play to guarantee the contract.

2. The point of this hand is that you should not take the spade finesse at trick three. If you did that and lost to North's king, you would probably go down later on, losing one trick in each suit.

Instead, upon winning the heart return at trick two, you should play the ace and another diamond in the hope of finding North with the king. If he has it, the queen of diamonds develops into the extra trick you are looking for.

If it turns out that South wins dummy's queen of diamonds with the king, you will still make the contract if the spade finesse succeeds. By playing the diamonds ahead of the trumps, you give yourself two chances to make the contract instead of one.

Fingerprinting Of Canadians 'Needed In Case Of Disaster'

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP)—Every Canadian should have access to voluntary fingerprinting facilities as an aid to identification in cases of mass disaster, says a coroner's jury which investigated a July 5 crash of an Air Canada jetliner.

Twenty of the bodies of the 109 aboard were never identified.

But the jury, reporting its findings Thursday at the conclusion of an inquest conducted by Dr. H. B. Cotnam, Ontario supervising coroner, rejected his suggestion that all such fingerprinting should be compulsory.

The jury had been told by Dr. Cotnam not to consider the cause of the crash of Air Canada's Flight 621, which was bound from Montreal to Los Angeles with a stop at Toronto.

A report on the cause of the crash five miles north of Toronto International Airport, aimed at preventing similar accidents, is expected later this month or early in February.

PREPARING FINDINGS

Mr. Justice Hugh Gibson of the Exchequer Court of Canada is preparing his findings on the federal inquiry he conducted here last month.

The inquest jury, in its conclusions Thursday, recommended:

- That all victims of multi-death air disasters be given a single, mass burial instead of individual burials for remains that can be identified.
- All police agencies should "provide facilities to enable any citizen to obtain a set of his own fingerprints."
- The set should be retained by the citizen and no copy should be made by the authorities.
- An educational program should be started immediately to promote public acceptance of the necessity and value of such records.
- Dentists should provide records of their patients to a central agency—such as the National Society of Forensic Odontology—for identification purposes in event of a crash.

—All airline employees should be required to have their fingerprints and dental records on file with their employers.

In his summation to the jury Dr. Cotnam said: "Only criminals would mind having their fingerprints on file." He said with combined fingerprints and dental records "you would get almost a perfect record of identification."

SEATS NOT CHANGED

The jury also decided that Captain Peter Hamilton and First Officer Donald Howland were sitting in their correct seats when the jet crashed. Experts at the inquest backed off from earlier conclusions that the two were sitting in the wrong seats.

The five-man jury, which sat four days in this town 27 miles northwest of Toronto, earlier heard testimony that identification of the 109 shattered bodies required the most difficult investigatory procedures.

The 20 who were never connected with names on the passenger list were buried in a mass funeral in Toronto July 30. Identification of the remains of the others took three weeks' painstaking work which Dr. Cotnam said stretched the resources of Toronto's medical profession to its limits.

Forty-four were identified by dental work, 20 by fingerprints, 19 by personal effects attached to their bodies and six by pathology examination.
